

Transforming Safety Colorado

Southeast Colorado Springs

About Transforming Safety

The Colorado legislature created the Transforming Safety program in 2017. It made reforms in the State's parole system that will save the state money. The State will invest these savings in strategies that improve public safety.

The program will operate in North Aurora and Southeast Colorado Springs. Both communities will receive $1.3 million each year in grant funds for three years. They will also receive $500,000 each year for lending to small businesses.

You can find more information on Transforming Safety at www.transformingsafety.org. These guidelines apply to the grant fund. If you would like to learn about the lending program, please visit <https://transformingsafety.org/loans/>.

Transforming Safety Legislation: Grants Program Funding Areas

Local Planning Teams

The program created local planning teams in both communities. The teams had two tasks:

- Defining the boundaries for the grant program
- Creating specific grant priorities based on the four grant program areas

These teams met many times in early 2018. Team members looked at data and conducted research. They brought their knowledge and experience of their communities.

The teams chose boundaries for the two communities. Only programs that work within these boundaries can apply for grants. The teams created specific grant priorities in the four areas. Only groups that advance these priorities can apply for grants. The boundaries and priorities are on pages two and three of these guidelines.

Which Groups Will Be Funded?

The Transforming Safety grants program will be very competitive. Not all groups that advance the program's priorities will be funded. The program will fund established groups that can show strong past outcomes. It will also fund new groups with new ideas. A group's connection to its community will be very important. So will being able to show results quickly.

All successful grantees will receive help evaluating their work. Coaching will also be available to help grantees to track and report on their outcomes. Groups that show the best progress may be able to get funding in years two and three. Grantees will be required to work closely with the program's evaluator both individually and as part of a group of grantees.

Grant Priorities for Southeast Colorado Springs

The SE Colorado Springs local planning team selected four grant priorities. To receive funding, you must advance one or more of these priorities.

Below each priority is a series of questions about that priority. You do not need to answer these questions in this application. As noted earlier, grantees must be able to clearly demonstrate how they will improve community safety through this grant. These questions are meant to help you start thinking about how you will measure impact for the priority or priorities you choose.

The SE Colorado Springs local planning team selected the following four grant priorities:

1. Support adults and youth who are or have been involved in the criminal justice system in order to reduce recidivism or incidence of reoffending.

What group(s) do you propose to serve? For each group, what specific supports do you intend to provide? How will each of these supports specifically reduce recidivism or incidents of reoffending? How do you plan to measure the impacts of the supports you provide? Are there current statistics or other data you will measure these impacts against?

2. Help youth (up to age 25) develop the skills and resilience to avoid, reduce, or stop high risk behaviors that can lead to involvement with the criminal justice system.

What age youth do you plan to serve? What specific high-risk behaviors do you intend to address? What specific skills or aspects of resilience do you intend to develop for these youth? What are the specific and measurable impacts you intend to achieve? How do you plan to measure these impacts? Are there current statistics or other relevant data you plan to measure these impacts against?

3. Address systemic causes of economic, racial, and academic disparities.

Which category of disparity (economic/social/racial) do you intend to address? Which system(s) will you address? For each category and system identified, what do you specifically intend to improve or mitigate? How do you plan to measure this improvement or mitigation? Are there current statistics or other relevant data you plan to measure your improvement or mitigation against?

4. Improve community-based supports to reduce violence and neglect in families.

What specific community-based supports will you provide? How will each of these supports specifically reduce violence and neglect in families? How do you plan to measure the intended impact of the supports provided? Are there current statistics or other relevant data you plan to measure your intended impact against?

Your group must do work on one or more of these priorities to apply for a Transforming Safety grant. Your group may work on other activities as well. But Transforming Safety can only fund your work on these priorities.
